For the past six decades, twin brothers Lee and Larry Williams have been surfing the gnarliest waves despite living nearly 2,000 miles away from any ocean. To overcome the obstacles of being born and raised in Sheboygan, Wisconsin, they brought their dreams and long boards to the shores of Lake Michigan. Often braving 35-degree waters and wind-chill temperatures hovering below zero, the Williams brothers quickly realized the biggest adversaries of the "Malibu of the Midwest" weren't the lacking waves, but rather hypothermia and frostbite. Customizing their wetsuits to allow them to last nearly three hours in even the iciest of waters, Lee and Larry helped revolutionize a surf culture where one had never been before. As hosts of the Dairyland Surf Classic, they became international surfing celebrities and attracted hundreds of surfers from around the globe eager to partake in one of America's best beach parties. Some Like it Cold is the fascinating story of two brothers whose lifelong journey to ride the ultimate wave seemingly brought the rest of the surfing world to their hometown.

Daryl Radford:

As a university student exactly feel bored to help reading. If their teacher requested them to go to the library or to make summary for some book, they are complained. Just very little students that has reading's heart or real their leisure activity. They just do what the trainer want, like asked to the library. They go to at this time there but nothing reading seriously. Any students feel that examining is not important, boring in addition to can't see colorful images on there. Yeah, it is to get complicated. Book is very important to suit your needs. As we know that on this era, many ways to get whatever we would like. Likewise word says, many ways to reach Chinese's country. Therefore this Some Like it Cold: A Sheboygan Surfin' Safari can make you feel more interested to read.
